

Benefits of Grant Information and Applications for School Districts

School districts struggle with budgets and funding every year. Security and surveillance are areas that at this time are not necessarily seen as a priority. Helping them understand and see what surveillance can do for them in terms of saving money due to theft and cutting down on discipline problems would create a win-win situation. However, budget constraints will continue to be the reason they don't see surveillance solutions as a priority.

Most districts don't have the time or manpower available to research and apply for grants. By offering Grant information to the districts, such as grants available for technology and security, we would be able to help them free up funds that may be marked for technology and could now be used to install security systems. The more information we have to offer districts about funding resources, the more likely they will be able to consider security and surveillance a necessary solution.

Overall, just knowing the funding and budgeting processes of the public school system is necessary for any reseller or vendor wanting to gain educational business. Having staff that has worked as a in technology and procurement for a large districts for many years Sigma has an insight into how the process works and also the resources necessary to find grants for education.
